

GSACS NexGen Scholarship School Application

The following is the minimum information that a school must work through to pre-determine who would be eligible for the GSACS NexGen Scholarship. Each school must understand the purpose and limits of the scholarship that they may use it wisely to disciple young people through Christian education. This information is due by October 15th of every year a school desires to apply for the NexGen Scholarship.

Eligibility Expectations

1. Establish a FACTS account and work with FACTS to establish eligibility minimums. Inform GSACS when this is completed so we may review the requirements through FACTS. Supply explanation for eligibility requirements that are lower than FACTS suggested minimums.
2. In general, determine whether the applicant family is wisely using their finances to the point that you would want to help them. Think about this personally—if you could, would you want to help them knowing how the parents or legal guardians spend their money?
3. Determine if they have applied for and received all available benefits, grants, scholarships, and discounts offered by the school.
4. Determine if this family needs financial assistance for their children to stay in school. For currently enrolled students to be eligible, parents or legal guardians would need to show mitigating life circumstances for why they could afford tuition before but now need financial assistance. Each applicant family must fill out the application through FACTS to help determine eligibility.
5. Have applicants submit applications by the due dates listed on the general information sheet and establish the school's recommendation for how much scholarship to award.
6. Scholarships should only cover tuition costs and not extracurricular activities.

Please check the following stating your understanding.

- I have read and understand the general information fact sheet for the GSACS NexGen Scholarship. I understand and will seek to follow the intentions of this scholarship listed above using it to help students in need of financial assistance to stay in our Christian school and not simply provide easy scholarship money for promotional purposes.
- I recognize this scholarship is designed to be the “last money in” to make a Christian education possible (not just financially easier).
- We are a full member of GSACS and understand that scholarships will not be paid out until dues are paid in full.
- We will award all eligible financial assistance from our organization first.
- We will verify financial need.
