Sam Brock, born and raised in California, is a distinguished board gamer and even dabbles in creating original games. Although he is comfortable on the skit stage at Ironwood, his favorite job is to support the team behind the scenes. He is currently the executive director at Ironwood, and his burden for reaching young people for the Lord Jesus Christ is seen in his life choices. He loves storytelling, but his favorite stories to tell are about God's provision in his life and in others' lives.
